LOOKING TO RETRAIN?

You can choose to continue in your current AFSC or retrain into a completely new career field. Whatever you do, you can count on the Air Guard to stand behind you every step of the way.

IS LOCATION IMPORTANT TO YOU?

With more than 140 Air Guard units across the United States and its territories, you can live wherever you choose and serve close to home.

PALACE CHASE

Do you have plans for your post-active-duty career? Are you ready to start living those dreams right now? With the PALACE CHASE program, once you've completed at least half of your original contract (two-thirds for officers), you can transition directly from the Air Force to the Air Guard.

PALACE FRONT

Already completed your active-duty service obligation term? You can transition seamlessly into the Air Guard - with the PALACE FRONT program.

SERVING PART OR FULL-TIME?

Serving part-time gives you the flexibility to live life the way that is best for you, serving one weekend per month and two weeks each year. There are also full-time opportunities as a dual-status military technician or an Active Guard Reserve (AGR) member.

BENEFITS OF PRIOR SERVICE

One of the real advantages of military service is the benefits package. As a member of the Air Guard, you'll receive a solid paycheck along with educational and other military benefits, including:

- Recapture the pride of wearing a uniform and the camaraderie with fellow servicemen and women.
- Serve your community and country as part of a team.
- Continue investing in a military retirement plan.
- Get additional Montgomery G.I. Bill benefits to help with educational expenses.
- Keep your low-cost health insurance for you and your family.
- Continue to have Base Exchange (BX) and Commissary shopping privileges.
- Keep the low-cost life insurance provided to all military members.

LIFE AFTER MILITARY SERVICE

There are things about military service that you just can't find in civilian life. In addition to the tangible benefits, there's a sense of security and camaraderie that goes with serving a cause greater than your own. Many who leave the Air Force discover that they miss the people and the lifestyle. In the Air Guard, you serve in a way that fits your life, close to home, while still enjoying the tangible and intangible benefits of service.
